Why Declaring

"I Am a Living Soul Under God"

Does Not Collapse Agency

Date: November 2025

Executive Summary

Many individuals believe that simply declaring themselves a "living man or woman under God's law" will protect them in a courtroom. This belief is incorrect because it does not address the underlying agency relationship between the living soul and the body corporate created by the birth certificate. As long as this agency exists, the living soul remains the surety for the corporate fiction and is liable for its obligations. This report explains why such declarations fail and why rescinding the agency is essential for true jurisdictional sovereignty.

1. The Misconception

- Claim: "I am a living soul under God's law; therefore, statutory courts have no authority over me."
- Reality: Courts operate on commercial presumptions. The birth certificate creates a corporate entity (principal), and the living soul is presumed to act as its agent and surety. This presumption is not rebutted by mere declarations.

ECCLESIA LAW

2. Why Declarations Fail in Court

- Courts recognize contracts and agency, not personal beliefs.
- The agency relationship is administrative, not spiritual.
- Unless the agency is severed, the living soul remains bound as surety for the corporate entity's debts and obligations.
- Judges will treat declarations as irrelevant because the legal system operates under Caesar's law, not Biblical law.

3. The Law of Agency and Suretyship

- Agency Defined: A fiduciary relationship where the agent acts on behalf of the principal.
- Presumption in Birth Certificate System:
  - Principal = Body Corporate (legal fiction).
  - Agent = Living Soul.
  - Surety = Living Soul guarantees all obligations of the corporate entity.
- Consequences:
  - Tax liability, debt enforcement, statutory penalties.
  - Loss of natural rights in commercial jurisdiction.

4. Why Rescission Is Essential

- Clausula Rebus Sic Stantibus: Allows rescission of contracts formed under false presumption.
- Declaration of Life (1707 Act): Rebuts presumption of death and restores living status.
- Assumption of General Executor Office: Removes Crown's standing as executor d'assent tort.
- Envoy Protocol: Provides structural remedy—trust filings, diplomatic credentials, and ecclesiastical jurisdiction.

5. Corrective Process

1. Identify the agency relationship.
2. Rescind the agency using lawful instruments.
3. Reoccupy the executor role over the estate.
4. Elevate jurisdiction through ecclesiastical and international law (Envoy Protocol).

6. Why "I Am a Living Soul Under God" is insufficient

- Without rescission, courts still presume the living soul acts as agent and surety.
- Moral declarations do not override commercial presumptions.

7. Conclusion

Declaring "I am a living soul under God" does not collapse the agency relationship. The living soul remains liable as surety unless the agency is lawfully rescinded. True sovereignty requires structural remedies—such as those provided by the Envoy Protocol—combined with proper legal instruments to terminate agency and restore executor authority.
